

Fleas & ticks are more than a nuisance.

They threaten your pet's health.
Itching and discomfort are just the beginning. Flea and tick bites can cause allergic reactions and disease transmission, including Lyme disease, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Ehrlichiosis, and tapeworms.

They infest your home.
Fleas reproduce rapidly, quickly turning a hitched ride into a full-blown infestation. Eradication can be difficult and sometimes requires repeated treatment of your pets and every living space.

They drain your wallet.
From countless trips to your veterinarian to addressing infestation, eradication costs can quickly add up.

Provecta provides protection.

Prevention is key to protecting your pets, family, and home. Always consult with your veterinarian to choose the most appropriate preventive measures for your pets and follow their recommendations diligently.

The latest addition to the Provecta family of brands.

For the pets you love.
From the brand you trust.
